

'6 O'CLOCK THIEF' HOLDS UP GIRL

Boldly Attacks Miss Willis in the Heart of Mount Vernon and Escapes with Her $150 Watch.

HIGHWAYMEN BUSY IN MANY DISTRICTS.

Keep Detectives and Police in All the Little Towns Between Harlem and Stamford, Conn., on the Jump.

Detectives in the Bronx, Mount Vernon and all the little settlements between Harlem and Stamford, Conn., are looking for the highwaymen who have been terrorizing the residents of those districts.

The latest victim is Miss Phoebe Willis, the eighteen-year-old daughter of John Willis, of East Chester. Miss Willis was attacked and robbed by a highwayman who is known as the "6 o'clock thief." He attacked her boldly in the heart of Mount Vernon and escaped with her $150 watch.

The thief met the crowd that awaited from the 6 o'clock train at the station and followed Miss Willis until she came to the third avenue bridge. There he tore the watch from her waist and made his escape.

Within the last three days Miss Bondell, of Pelham, and Mrs. Daniel Scott, of Seventh avenue, were robbed in the same manner, and it is believed, by the same man.

Another bold thief performed a similar feat in the heart of Stamford, Conn., in front of a fashionable club and in full view of several persons this thief knocked Mrs. Frederick H. Ayres down, tore her wrist bag from her and escaped around the corner, where a confederate was waiting with a horse and buggy.

Joseph G. McKown, a retired policeman, now a builder, is the latest victim of the thieves that have been operating in the Bronx.

McKown lives at No. 62 East One Hundred and Forty-eighth street. He nearly lost his life while defending himself from the attack of a bold crook who attempted to rob him in front of No. 259 Lottland place, Bronx.

McKown had just drawn $50 from the Mount Morris Bank to pay off a force of men he had at work on houses at Lottland place. Suddenly a tall man who had been following him ran up and dealt him a blow with a club.

McKown fell, but seized the thief when the latter grabbed at his watch and the two fought all over the sidewalk. The thief striking McKown again and again with the club. Finally the workmen heard McKown's cries and ran to his aid. The thief hit him a last blow on the head with the club and jumped over a stone wall, making his escape.

McKown had to be carried to his home and is now under the care of a physician. No trace of the robber has been found.

FAIRLEY MAY GET A CARDINAL'S CAP

Vatican Circles Believe Honor Will Be Conferred on Him Despite Efforts on Behalf of Archbishop Ireland.

ROME, Dec. 4.—The visit of Ambassador Storero here and his conference with several cardinals and the Pope is now believed to have been the purpose of reporting to the Holy See how indispensable is the nomination of Archbishop Ireland as cardinal, after so many promises and after all the Church has obtained through his influence.

Mr. Storero left the Vatican pleased, and it is said that he is almost sure that Archbishop Ireland this time will succeed.

Vatican circles, however, are sceptical, and the opinion prevails that although the most discussed candidates are Archbishop Ireland and Ryan, the Pope will choose an outsider who is likely to be Archbishop Fairley. This belief is based on the feeling that if one American is named as cardinal, the conference of the Pope, New York deserves at most, because it has the largest Catholic population.

FINED FOR KEEPING CHILDREN AT HOME

Because of her refusal to send her two children to school, Mrs. Christina Hoops, of No. 38 City Hall place, was fined $5 by Magistrate Flammer in the Central street court to-day.

"It is my business," replied the woman, "what I do with my children. I'm their mother, and I think I am capable of bringing them up in the right way without any interference from anybody."

"But the law is compulsory," the Magistrate explained.

"I don't care for the law," replied the woman.

"Well, the law will look out for them," replied the Magistrate. "You send the children to school and I will fine you."
